 - There are special laws that protect teens - make sure you know your rights on the job.
 - Teen workers need to know how to recognize hazards, and speak up when they see something wrong.
 - Employers are responsible for providing a safe workplace and training on how to stay safe at work.
 - If you don't know how to do the job, ask for help. Make sure you know how to do your work safely.
 - Good co-workers look out for each other.
 - Focus on a particular hazard, such as one of the hazards common to teen work places, including slippery floors, hot grease and surfaces, knives, box-cutters, or other sharp tools, heavy or awkward lifting, dangerous machinery, pesticides, and ladders.
